Works Min was target of Tral attack: Cops

KHURSHED WANI ■ SRINAGAR

Two civilians were killed and 30 others — including several paramilitary personnel — were injured when suspected terrorists lobbed a grenade towards cavalcade of Works Minister Naem Akhtar at Tral sub-district in south Kashmir, 40 kilometres from here on Thursday afternoon.

Police chief Shesh Paul Vaid said that the attack was aimed at the Public Works Minister.

The Minister, who is also chief spokesman of the PDP-BJP coalition, escaped unhurt but a senior engineer in his cavalcade was wounded. The security forces fired in air after the explosion. Though the hospital sources claimed that most of the injured had been hit with pellets, the district police denied use of pellet guns.

Sources said Akhtar had inaugurated a bridge at Chandrigam village in the same area, half an hour before the attack and was on way to another spot when unidentified persons lobbed a grenade towards his cavalcade near busy bus stand. The grenade-thrower apparently escaped through an orchard owned by the horticulture department. The grenade hit one of the vehicles in the long cavalcade of security and civil officers' vehicles.

"The movement, we turned towards Shikargah road, there was big bang followed by firing. We couldn't make out as to what has happened. The Minister was driven to police station for safety," an official who was in the cavalcade told

The Pioneer.

A postgraduate student Manmeet Kour Pinky died on the spot while dozens of civilians were wounded. One of them a former teacher Ghulam Nabi Trag succumbed to his injuries in the hospital. Trag was running a hardware shop around the bus stand.

Sources said after grenade was lobbed towards motorcade its splinters hit at least two vehicles injuring one of the drivers while two engineers sustained minor injuries.

A police spokesman said the injured included seven CRPF personnel, two policemen and 21 civilians.

All the civilians were rushed to Sub-district hospital where 16 civilians and 2 CRPF men were discharged while the rest were shifted to Srinagar hospital. Three injured persons are stated to be in critical condition.

The hospital records maintained that 26 wounded persons received pellet injuries.

They included six women and three-year-old baby. A number of local residents staged protests outside Tral hospital against firing by security forces.

However, police refuted the use of pellet guns. In a statement, SP Awantipora Zahid Malik said no pellet was fired though some shots were fired in air to prevent any further attack. He said that the forces showed maximum restraint during the incident.

An official in the cavalcade said that there was a clear security breach. "The Minister was in the sensitive area and there was no foolproof security. This led to the attack," said the official, who wished not to be named.

Chief Minister Mehbooba Mufti condemned the attack that took place when a Minister had gone to the town to assess the development needs of the area which has remained neglected for decades. She said the vicious cycle of violence which unfortunately has engulfed the State for three decades now needs to be broken to stop the bloodshed and provide a breather to the people who have been choked by it. "How long are we going to suffer like this on human, developmental, economic, educational and social fronts," she asked. The people shall have to ponder over for how long this senseless bloodletting is going to consume us, she added.

Talking to reporters on police premises before cutting short his visit, Akhtar said it was really unfortunate that grenade was lobbed at the cavalcade. "Two people have lost their lives. I won't forget it my entire life," he said. The Minister said that the attacker was neither a friend of Tral nor Kashmir. "He was not a friend of Islam too," said Akhtar, adding that he wondered why they "chose this day (1st Muharram) to repeat Karabala."

He said the security forces showed "lot of restraint". "Forces respond (to situations) as lives of so many people were at stake (after the attack). And I don't think anyone died of bullet injury. So I think forces showed lot of restraint. Every day people trade allegations on them (forces). But I think without them (forces), there will be chaos all around," he said.

Tral is one of the most sensitive areas of south Kashmir with the presence of Hizbul Mujahideen and Jaish-e-Muhammad terrorists. After the death of Burhan Wani who belonged to the area, Tral remained under sharp focus of the media and security agencies. However, the situation remained by and large peaceful in the area during the past more than 14 months.

No terrorist group claimed responsibility for the attack. Instead, Hizbul Mujahideen and Lashkar-e-Tayyeba (LeT) outfits condemned the attack.

Pak targets civilian areas along border, residents shifted to safer places

MOHIT KANDHARI ■ JAMMU

Several hundred border residents late Thursday night shifted to safer places after Pakistan rangers started shelling thickly populated areas along the International Border provoking strong retaliation from the Border Security Force (BSF) across Jammu frontier.

Pakistan was violating ceasefire agreement and targeting civilian areas for last one week in a bid to provoke strong retaliation. After suffering huge damages on its side Pakistan rangers on Thursday turned their guns towards civilian areas in Arnia sub sector of RS Pura.

By late evening Pakistan rangers started pounding several villages of Ramgarh sector of Samba as well. Intense mortar shelling was also reported from forward villages of Arnia sub sector and over half a dozen villages of RS Pura. More than one dozen Border Outposts of BSF were targeted by the Pak rangers till last reports came in.

The festive atmosphere prevailing in the area on account of beginning of nine day long Navratri festival early morning turned in to despair as many areas were deserted due to continuous shelling and intermittent firing by Pakistan rangers. It was total black out in the forward villages of RS Pura and Arnia.

Till the time of filing the report at least half a dozen villagers had received splinter injuries while large number of live stock perished. The injured were shifted to Government Medical college hospital for advance treatment of splinter injuries.

Several houses also bore maximum brunt of day long shelling forcing the residents to shift to safer places. Some of the residents had a narrow escape as mortar shells blasted in their house verandas after piercing roof tops of their houses.

Tripura tense after journalist's murder

Curfew imposed on most places

ANUP SHARMA ■ GUWAHATI

Tension prevailed in Tripura capital Agartala and its adjoining areas after supporters of a tribal organisation launched series of attacks leading to death of a journalist at Mandai area on Wednesday even as the State Government has imposed section 144 CrPc in most of the areas of the State.

Tripura Chief Minister Manik Sarkar reviewed the law and order situation with top officials of police and other security agencies like Assam Rifles, Border Security Force and Tripura State Rifles. Additional forces were deployed wherever necessary and security apparatus were intensified across the State.

"The situation is under control as of now and there is no report of any fresh violence today. Yesterday we have arrested two persons for their alleged involvement in killing of the journalist. However, six more people have been arrested today for their involvement in inciting the mob for violence," said IGP (Law and Order) of Tripura, KV Sreejesh while resorted to lathi charge to contain the mob," said the officer.

"Journalist Shantanu Bhowmik, who was covering the violence in Mandai area, was brutally killed by the IPFT supporters. Police later recovered the body of the journalist. Although he was shifted to the local hospital immediately, the doctors declared him brought dead," Sreejesh said.

The IPFT and the Twipraland State Party had been agitating since 2009 demanding upgradation of the Tripura Tribal Areas Autonomous District Council (TTADC) to a separate tribal State.

Supporters of the tribal organisation Indigenous Peoples' Front of Tripura (IPFT) first attack attacked supporters of Tripura Rajya Upajati Ganamukti Parishad (TRUGP) in different places on Wednesday, who were coming for a party meeting. Later they attacked security forces, destroyed Government buildings and set vehicles on fire. The police

Press associations say scribe's killing 'reckless, inhuman'

PTI ■ NEW DELHI

The media fraternity on Thursday condemned the killing of Tripura journalist Santanu Bhowmik, saying it was a "reckless" and "inhuman" act to silence the voice of the free press.

The Press Club of India, Indian Women's Press Corps, Press Association, Federation of Press Clubs in India and the North East Media Forum issued a joint statement demanding a swift probe into the incident.

"Santanu Bhowmik's life was taken away by mindless violence when he was discharging his professional journalistic duties. It is a reckless, inhuman act to silence the voice of the free press in the country and an assault on the freedom of press," the statement said.

Bhowmik, who worked with a local television channel, was covering a clash between the IPFT and the Tripura Rajya Upajati Ganamukti Parishad, the tribal wing of the CPI(M), in Mandai area of West Tripura yesterday when he was hit from behind and abducted, a senior police officer had said.

Later, the scribe was found with serious stab injuries and rushed to Agartala Medical College and Hospital where doctors declared him 'brought dead', he said. "We demand an impartial and swift probe into the murder," the statement said.

Temple takeover bid triggers tension in Kerala

Kochi: Tension prevailed in the vicinity of the famous Parthasarathy temple at Guruvayur in Kerala's Thrissur district on Thursday with temple employees, activists of Hindu outfits and devotees resisting a bid by the authorities of the Malabar Devaswom Board to take over the shrine.

The incident occurred when a group of officials from the Devaswom Board reached the temple in order to take over the temple claiming that the affairs there were drenched in corruption. Tension built up in the area after a group of temple employees and Hindu activists took a firm stand against the takeover move.

The Devaswom officials had sought the police's help for taking over the temple. Dozens of police personnel had accompanied the officials. However, they failed in working out a compromise after the Hindu activists and devotees stuck to their decision.

The efforts of the Devaswom Board for taking over the famous shrine have been going on for the past few years. The issue had been lying unsettled after the temple committee, which is looking after the administrative affairs currently, approached the High Court. The Devaswom officials said they had come to take over the temple on the basis of the court's order.

"The Devaswom Board's

justification for its takeover bid is that there is corruption in the temple administration. Everybody knows that the Devaswom Boards in Kerala are tents of corruption. At present, there is transparency in this temple's administration. We won't allow the takeover which would lead to the shrine's destruction," said a temple committee representative.

The Devaswom Board had started the move to take over the temple a few years back during the tenure of the former CPI(M)-led LDF Government after allegations of irregularities in its affairs had come up. The board did not succeed in the plan in the context of objections from devotees and after the issue was taken to the court.

Responding to the development, State BJP president Kumanan Rajasekharan asked the Government to abandon the move to take over the shrine. The actual intention behind the bid to take over a temple whose administration was running transparently is to take possession of its wealth, he alleged.

Efforts for taking possession of a temple with the help of the police force were unfamiliar as far as Kerala was concerned, Kumanan said. Bid to take over only Hindu places of worship on the basis of false justifications amounted to challenging the Hindus in the State, he added.

Youth bobbitised in Kerala, woman held

PNS ■ KOCHI

The genital organ of a 26-year-old man was cut on Thursday allegedly by a young woman, said to be his lover, at Kuttipuram in Kerala's Malappuram district. The woman, who has been taken into custody, told the police that she cut his organ out of rage over his decision to marry another woman despite the fact they had been in love for a long time.

The incident took place on Thursday morning at a lodge in Kuttipuram. The youth, a native of Purathur near Ponnani in Malappuram district, has been admitted to a hospital in Kozhikode with his organ severed 70 per cent.

He and the 30-year-old woman, hailing from Perumbavoor in Ernakulam district, had checked in at the lodge on Wednesday evening.

The woman told the police that they were lovers. They had reportedly got married legally six months ago. She said the youth had got engaged to another woman recently and she cut his organ out of rage over this.
